XVII. Anexo 1

Pesquisa realizada junto aos produtores de Meios de Pagamento identificados até dezembro/97, por e-mail.

Dear Sir,

I am conducting my doctoral research, studying Electronic Payment Systems.

I would appreciate your help, with the following few questions,

thank you,

Leopoldo Csillag

Fundação Getulio Vargas

São Paulo – Brasil

- 1– What is your customer base (number of stores) ?
- 2– Can you indicate their names and url's ?
- 3– Do you consider your product as completely ready or under continue development ?
- 4– How long does a improvement cycle take ?
- 5– What do you use as information for product improvement ?
- 6– What difficulties did you find for this ?
- 7– Which are the common objections you have for system adoption, by the clients ?
- 8– How do the clients try to resolve their concerns
- 9– Your name and title.

Questionário com lojistas

Correio eletrônico enviado aos lojistas:

Prezado Senhor,

Estou desenvolvendo uma pesquisa para ser usada em minha tese de doutorado.

As informações serão coletadas em um questionário interativo, que deverá tomar aprox. 30 min. de seu tempo.

As informações serão tratadas de forma confidencial, sendo que somente dados agregados serão divulgados.

A pesquisa é bastante abrangente e sua contribuição é fundamental para o sucesso. O resultado da pesquisa será enviado por e-mail para todos os respondentes. Esse é o único questionário que será enviado.

Agradecemos desde já sua colaboração,

Perguntas sobre a sua Organização

As cinco perguntas a seguir, referentes à cada um dos nove tópicos, devem ser respondidas na escala de -3 até +3, de acordo com o quanto se aproximam da situação dada.

Processo de Criação de Valor

Como sua empresa cria valor ?
As pessoas se concentram em suas atividades e não precisam saber como a empresa como um todo cria valor.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas sabem quem são os clientes e como a empresa os atende.
Existem valbres formais para medir a criação de valor ?
Não existem medidas de valores, ou existem tantas que raramente são usadas.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Existem poucas medidas de criação de valor, que são usadas como base de decisão e de compensação.
Como os conflitos são resolvidos ?
Os conflitos são geralmente resolvidos através do poder organizacional. Geralmente os conflitos viram pessoais e as pessoas perdem a visão do conjunto.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Os conflitos são resolvidos através do compartilhamento da compreensão do processo de criação de valores, avaliando que ações criam o maior valor para os clientes da organização.

Como as decisões são tomadas ?
	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3
As avaliações não mensuram o final da cadeia de valor.								Avaliações traçam ações para resultados medidos pela criação de valor, com medidas modernas.
Voce e outros na sua empresa sentem-se com poder de questionar atividades que acreditam não estar contribuindo para criar valor ?
As pessoas sentem-se desencorajadas para questionar o valor da atividade. Elas temem (ou tiveram experiência) negativa nesse sentido.								As pessoas tem vários exemplos de situações aonde questionam as atividades. Questionando como a atividade cria valor é uma maneira legítima de questionar as atividades. Tarefas que não criam valor são modificadas ou abandonadas

Criando Alternativas

Sobre o número e amplitude das alternativas consideradas em decisões recentes
Só uma opção é desenvolvida (geralmente com pequenas variações), ou não existe percepção de escolha além de continuar ou parar.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Existem várias boas opções que são cuidadosamente avaliadas e rejeitadas para adotar alternativas melhores.
Sobre a factibilidade das alternativas consideradas em decisões recentes
As alternativas ou especificam objetivos de alto-nível sem dar rumo às pessoas sobre o que fazer, ou são planos detalhados das únicas alternativas sob consideração.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Todas as alternativas são desenvolvidas suficientemente para se tornarem factíveis, mesmo não sendo super especificadas. As pessoas entendem o esforço e recursos envolvidos na implementação, mas planos detalhados são desenvolvidos somente para a alternativa escolhida.
Como são resolvidos os desentendimentos ?
Desentendimentos evoluem para conflitos que são resolvidos por poder ou política. Todas as idéias, menos uma é suprimida.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Quando as pessoas tem idéias diferentes sobre o que fazer, as idéias são agregadas em alternativas separadas e os objetivos são avaliados.

Como as alternativas são avaliadas ?
As pessoas usam criterios aleatórios para escolher a alternativa preferida, e são geralmente dominados por considerações políticas internas. A ênfase é dada para desenvolver consenso político.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas usam processos sistêmicos para conectar alternativas de medidas de criação de valor. As alternativas são priorizadas e refinadas pela sua capacidade de criar valor
Sobre o uso de metodologias de geração de alternativas
Ferramentas criativas são percebidas como precárias e não são utilizadas para desenvolver melhores alternativas	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Existem ferramentas formais e know-how criativo. As pessoas geralmente utilizam tabelas estratégicas, brainstorming e outras técnicas criativas

Aprendizado Contínuo

Como as mudanças se relacionam com o propósito da organização ?
	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3
As pessoas percebem que o moto da organização é continuar a fazer o que sempre fizeram. Mudanças são percebidas como necessidades foçadas na empresa pela circunstância.								As pessoas percebem que o motivo da organização de esforço contínuo é para criar mais valor e portanto fazem as alterações necessárias.
Sobre o folclore da organização.
O folclore é sobre mudanças modestas, sobre falhas de mudanças ou sobre como a tradição se sobrepôs às mudanças.								Existe ampla evldência sobre mudanças com sucesso, incluido várias que implicaram em novos paradigmas
Sobre mudanças recentes
As pessoas percebem as mudanças como forçadas sobre elas. As pessoas estão motivadas para evitar as consequências negativas das mudanças.								Mudanças são percebidas como positivas e produtivas, mesmo se tiver sido dolorosa na época. Mudanças são geralmente motivadas por oportunidade.
Como as empresas em sua organização reagem à novas ideias ou críticas ?
As pessoas são inflexíveis. Elas são inaptas à entender uma nova ideia, tratam-na como perigosa e rejeitam-na com preconceito. Existe pouca experimentação com novas abordagens ou estruturas organizacionais.								As pessoas ficam excitadas com a perspectiva de aprendizagem e crescimento. Elas exploram idéias buscando seus valores, possivelmente testando-as em grupos pequenos para descobrir seu valor e determinar sua aplicabilidade.

Existem atividades formais ou informais para procurar por novas abordagens, práticas ou idéias ?
A organização não tem essas atividades e inibe pessoas que as tentam.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3
As pessoas buscam ativamente oportunidade para melhorias. Programas de qualidade são parte integral na empresa.

Encarando Incertezas

Quando as pessoas são solicitadas a prever sobre variáveis incertas na qual elas possuem algum grau de conhecimento
dão estimativas pontuais sem conhecimento da incerteza. Elas tem pouca noção do fator que pode afetar suas previsões. Elas podem inclusive encarar a previsão como uma decisão sob seu controle	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	dão uma gama de probabilidades. Podem indicar os pontos chaves que influenciam o cenário que afetam os resultados.
Sobre o documentos de planejamento, como são criados e como são usados
Os planos são focados em pressupostos comuns. O planejamento são numeros negociados ou estimativas conservadoras. Geralmente esse números evoluem para percepções erradas sobre o futuro, mas compartilhadas na organização.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Os planos são focados em decisões críticas e fontes de incertezas. O planejamento inclui gamas de probabilidade que refletem sobre todas as fontes de incertezas.
Sobre o processo de elaborar orçamentos e estimativas de custos
Os orçamentos são rígidos, e as pessoas são pressionadas à prometer feitos com base neles. Prevalece uma mentira corporativa aonde as pessoas solicitam muito e os superiores sempre promovem cortes. Geralmente são eleitos projetos com a maior promessa.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas reconhecem que os custos de realizar grandes feitos não pode ser previsto. O processo de orçamentação tem a flexibilidade de se adaptar as novas informações geradas.

Como são feitos os comprometimentos na empresa, e como as pessoas são cobradas ?
Informações levantadas com o proposito de comunicação ou entendimento é usada com pretexto de comprometer. Esse duplo proposito gera viés na comunicação de incertezas.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Comprometimentos são feitos com base em objetivos alcançaveis, e pessoas são cobradas por coisas que podem controlar.
Sobre os pressupostos de planos ou decisões
Existem muitos pressupostos em planos e decisões.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As poucas pressuposições são explícitas e não cruciais para a decisão. São considerados vários cenários representando a gama de incertezas.

Perspectiva Estratégica

Como sua empresa vê as alterações ambientais na qual opera ?
	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3
Com uma visão de dentro para fora. Organizando os negócios existentes e administrando os desafios incrementais.								As pessoas tem a visão de forças mudando o setor (empresas e clientes), as posições e estratégias de competição, e as implicações para a própria organização.
Existem ferramentas formais e processos para desenvolver e comunicar as perspectivas do cenário externo ?
É difícil encontrar o pessoal, processo ou documentos demonstrando as ocorrências externas. Os esforços são feitos sobre processos imediatos e informações de fora estão na forma de relatórios indigestos.								Existe pessoal especializado, processos e documentos mostrando as tendências de fora para dentro da organização.
Sobre os pressupostos que as pessoas tem quando planejam ou tomam decisões
Existem vários pressupostos baseados na extensão do negócio existente em taxas de crescimento, e de que estamos tecnicamente na frente dos concorrentes, que movem-se devagar.								Os poucos pressupostos são assentados em um entendimento sólido das mudanças no setor.

Sobre as experiências e participações em eventos que expandam o horizonte, fora da organização
As pessoas estão focadas em suas atividades, excluindo a possibilidade de ampliar horizontes baseado nas informações de fora. A empresa desencoraja essa perspectiva	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	A maior parte das pessoas realizam atividades que ampliam seus horizontes (rotação de tarefas, reuniões em associações profissionais etc), A organização suporta essas atividades
Quando as pessoas em sua organização interpretam ou comentam sobre algum evento recente sobre seu setor ...
Elas tem dificuldade interpretando o evento. Elas são inundadas de detalhes e tem problemas em relatar para seus pares.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As interpretações refletem um entendimento amplo do setor. Elas são capazes de explicar o significado do evento para o setor e para a organização

Pensamento Sistêmico

Examinando uma decisão recente, os fatores considerados, como as pessoas sabiam o que era importante ?
Foram considerado poucos fatores, ou um número tão grande que as pessoa ficavam sobrecarregadas. Recomendações são baseadas em implicações para apenas um pequeno grupo de aspectos do negócio.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Muitos fatores são considerados, depois escrutinizados para uma lista de fatores importantes baseados nas implicações para criação de valor. A recomendação é baseada levando em conta a totalidade das implicações.
Que fatores as pessoas de sua empresa procuram quando tomam decisão ?
Não existe checklist e diferentes pessoas tem diferentes listas de fatores para considerar.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas tem checklists que cobrem todos os aspectos principais do sistema de negócio.
Como as diferentes perspectivas, como técnica e marketing são integrados no processo de decisão ?
Poucas perspectivas são representadas nas decisões. As pessoas agregam-se em clubinhos compartilhando visões semelhantes.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Diferentes perspectivas são representadas em cada decisão, e uma visão integrada é desenvolvida. As diferentes perspetivas são respeitadas e geralmente usadas para alargar a compreensão.

Existem modelos formais de sistemas importantes como modelos de negócios mostrando o caminho para lucro comercial em projetos, dinâmicas do setor e avaliação de portfólio ?
Modelos de sistemas são raros, e se existem são usados de maneira infrequente ou só por grupos especializados. Os modelos geralmente são muito complexos para serem utilizáveis.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Vários modelos de sistemas existem e são rotineiramente usados para desenvolver modos de ação.
Quando o presidente de sua organização é perguntado sobre uma questão complexa ...
Ele faz julgamentos baseados na sua percepção e perspectiva pessoal, sem reconhecer limitações. Alternativamente, ele fica incapaz de fazer qualquer progresso sem se valer de recursos extensivos (pessoas, relatórios etc)	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	O processo de pensamento representa uma ampla perspectiva da questão, e ele pode concluir com uma resposta parcial. Ele é capaz de utilizar os recursos necessários para boa parte dos eventos importantes (outras pessoas, checklists) estendendo seu pensamento.

Fluxo aberto de informações

Como as pessoas em sua organização obtém as informações que precisam ?
As pessoas precisam se esforçar para extrair as informações necessárias. Elas podem precisar de autorização para usar diversos recursos.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas recebem as melhor informação rapidamente (ex. conseguem localizar uma pessoa em no máximo dois telefonemas).
Como as pessoas se sentem sobre informações confidenciais ?
As pessoas se sentem fora do circuito em eventos críticos. A concorrência pode ter melhor informação sobre sua organização e o que fazem.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Existem poucos segredos. Aqueles que existem são reconhecidos como verdadeiras informações secretas (por motivo legal, competitivo etc) .
Quanta informação que as pessoas em sua organização tem recebido de outros nos últimos tempos ?
As pessoas tem problemas de obter informações de outros e devem se esforçar para conseguir as informações mais básicas. Informação é usada como fonte de poder.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas tem muita informação, as vezes mais do que conseguem digerir, e geralmente afirmam que os colegas foram de grande valia.
Existem canais formais de comunicação ?
Os poucos canais que existem são vistos como não relevantes para criar valor. Canais informais são desencorajados.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Os canais são abundantes e não restritos. As pessoas testemunham o seu valor. Canais informais são encorajados.

Como as pessoas contribuem para o canal de comunicação ?
As contribuições são limitadas e as oportunidades são poucas.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas tem dado contribuições recentes para o canal de comunicação e sentem que tem sido formalmente ou informalmente recompensadas por elas.

Empowerment

Sobre as estratégias em diferentes níveis (ex. estratégia tecnológica, estratégia de portfolio e estratégia de projeto)
Pode não haver nenhuma estratégia. Se existe, oferecem pouco rumo para processo de tomada de decisão. São encaradas clinicamente como relações públicas corporativas. Os links entre estratégias são ausentes, não-claros ou ambíguos.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Existem estratégias claras em todos os níveis que oferecem guia útil para tomada de decisão. As estratégias de um nível são claramente ligadas as estratégias do próximo nível. Estratégias de nível operacional são implementadas sob a ótica das estratégias de níveis superiores.
Sobre as medidas de valores usadas para avaliar decisões de diferentes níveis (ex. estratégia de portfólio para estratégia de projeto)
Podem não haver nenhuma medida formal de valor. Se existirem, cada nível determina seus próprios valores ou decisões sem qualquer necessidade de relatar seus valores e estratégias para outros níveis.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Existem medidas claras de valor em todos os níveis. As medidas de valores em um nível estratégico são claramente ligadas as estratégias de medidas no próximo nível.

Sobre as aprovações necessárias para definir decisões importantes
As decisões requerem vários níveis de aprovação. Reuniões de revisão são considerados como perda de tempo. Geralmente reuniões com a alta gerência são temidas porque podem redirecionar esforços e mudar prioridades sem motivos claros. A alta gerência geralmente se sente sobrecarregada com a necessidade de controlar os subordinados.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As decisões requerem poucas aprovações porque as pessoas entendem a estratégia e são confiadas a tocar o projeto. Reuniões com a alta gerência são encaradas como possibilidade de adicionar valor.
Sobre os papéis das pessoas envolvidas em uma decisão recente importante ...
Poucas pessoas participaram na decisão ou participam tantas que o processo murchou. Geralmente empregados de nível operacional apresentam propostas para a diretoria aguardando aprovação ou rejeição.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Muitas pessoas participam no processo de decisão em vários níveis na organização. Gerência de vários níveis participam para montar decisões de alto nível e alinhar as ações.
Sobre alguma decisão recente que foi controversa
A decisão não vingou e foi desfeita ou refeita varias vezes.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Pessoas se unificaram ao redor de decisões e tocaram em frente com pouca intervenção. Elas entenderam as razões para a decisão e acreditam que a empresa tem uma estatégia clara para criar valor.

Processo de Tomada de Decisão

Como foi uma tomada de decisão recente ?
As decisões são geralmente tomadas sem muita escolha consciente. Se existisse uma escolha, as razões para ela são geralmente pouco claras e sem documentação.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Foi uma decisão consciente, com documentação embasando-a.
Qual o processo para tomada de decisão ?
Sou incapaz de identificar os verdadeiros tomadores de decisão.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	É uma explicação consistente de um processo decisório sistêmico, que focou na criação de qualidade.
Sobre os tipos de decisões tomadas
Os tipos de decisões não são claramente delineados ou categorias inteiras estão ausentes (ex. o portfolio é simplesmente a soma de projetos individuais).	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas prontamente fazem a distinção entre tipos de decisões como estratégias de projeto, portfolio ou tecnológica.
Quando as pessoas criticam o processo de decisão da organização ...
As pessoas frequentemente acreditam que os processos decisórios tomam muito tempo de maneira ineficiente.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	As pessoas reconhecem o o valor agregado pelo processo.

Sobre as ferramentas formais utilizadas para suportar o processo ...
Essas ferramentas não são aparentes ou não são usadas com frequência para suportar decisões.	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Existem ferramentas modernas de apoio à decisão.

I am conducting my doctoral research, studying Electronic Payment Systems.

I would appreciate your help, with the following few questions,

All informations will be kept confidential, only conjunct data will be presented in the research.

The information will be collected in an interactive questionnaire, that will take about 30 minutes.

The research is comprehensive, and your contribution is very important for the success. The research conclusion will be sent by email to all respondents. This is the only questionnaire that will be sent.

Thanks for your collaboration,

Segundo e-mail enviado:

Dear Sir,

About a month ago I've sent your company a questionnaire in order to conduct my doctoral research in electronic commerce. Since we didn't receive your answer, I'm sending it again.

The information will be collected in an interactive form, and will take about 15 minutes to be completed.

Your collaboration is very important !

All collected information will remain confidential, only joined data will be disclosed.

thank you,

Questions about your Organization

The following questions (five on each topic), should be answered from -3 to +3, according to how close they match the given answers.

On Value Creation Culture

How does your organization create value ?
People focus on their own job and don't need to know how the whole company creates value	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People know who the customers of the organization are and how the company serves them
Are there formal measures of value creation ?
There are no measures of value, or there are so many that we seldom use them	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	There are few common measures of value creation that are used as the basis of decision making and compensation
How are conflicts resolved ?
Conflicts are resolved through organizational power or turf. Often the conflicts get personal, and people lose track of the larger picture	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Conflicts are resolved through appealing to a shared understanding of value creation and through examining what actions create the most value for customers and the organization

How are decisions made ?
Evaluations do not measure ultimate value creation, or measures are used that are not translated into ultimate value (ex. intuitive scoring system)	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Evaluations trace actions through to results measured by value creation, using ultimate measures.
Do you and others in your company, feel empowered to question activities that they (or others) are doing, that they think are not contributing to value ?
People feel discouraged from questioning the value of a task. They fear (or have experienced) unresponsiveness or political backlash	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People have several examples of situations in which they have questioned activities. Inquiring into how the task creates value is a legitimate way to question activities. Tasks not creating value are modified or abandoned

On Creating Alternatives

About the number and range of alternative considered in recent decisions
Only one option is developed (perhaps with some minor variations), or there is no perception of a choice other than go or no go	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3
About the doability of the alternatives considered in recent decisions
Alternatives either specify high-level goals without giving people guidance about what to do, or they are detailed plans of the only alternative under consideration	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3
How disagreement is resolved ?
Disagreement escalates to conflict that is resolved by power or politics. All ideas but one are suppressed	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3

be doable, yet they are not overspecified. People understand the effort and resources involved for implementation, but detailed plans are developed only for the selected alternative

How alternatives are evaluated ?
People use raw judgement to pick their preferred alternative and are often dominated by internal political considerations. The general emphasis is on developing a social and political consensus	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People use systems thinking to connect alternatives to measures of value creation. Alternatives are ranked and refined by their ability to create value
About the use of alternative generating technology
Creative tools are perceived as flaky and are not used to develop better alternatives	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	There are formal tools and creative know-how. People readily use strategy tables, brainstorming, and other creative techniques

On Continual Learning

How change relates to the purpose of the organization ?
People see that the purpose of the organization is to continue to do what it has always done. Change is viewed as necessary evolution forced on them by circumstances	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People see that the purpose of the organization is to continually learn hoe to create more value and make the required changes
About the stories on the organization history
Stories are either about relatively modest changes or about failed attempts to change. Some stories may convey pride in being unchanged (ex. tradition); others may convey fundamental barriers to change	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	There is an ample evidence of successful changes, including several changes that requiered paradigm shifts
About recent changes ?
People view the changes as forced on them. People are motivated by avoiding negative consequences	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Change is viewed as positive and productive, even if it was painful at the time. Changes are generally motivated by opportunity

How do people in your organization react to new ideas or criticism ?
People are inflexible. They are unable to understand the new idea, regard it as dangerous or threatening, and reject it with prejudice. There is little experimentation with new approaches or organizational structures. People tend to shoot the messenger	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People are excited by the prospect of learning and growing. They explore ideas to find their value, possibly testing them out in small groups to discover their value and determine their applicability
Are there formal or informal activities to search for new approaches, practices, and ideas ?
The organization lacks such activities and inhibits people who try them	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People actively seek opportunities for improvement, such as benchmarking or performance measurement. Quality programs are an integral part of the company

On Embracing Uncertainty

When people are asked to forecast an uncertain variable in which they have some degree of expertise ...
People give a point estimate without acknowledgement of uncertainty. They have little awareness of factors that might upset their forecast. They may even view the forecast as a decision under their control	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People give you a range or a probability distribution. They might offer insights into the key influences or scenarios that would affect the result
About planning documents, how they are made and how they are used
Plans focus on a baseline set of assumptions. Forecasts are negotiated numbers or conservative estimates. Often these numbers evolve to incorrect shared beliefs about the future	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Plans focus on major decisions and sources of uncertainty. Forecasts include ranges or probability assessments that reflect all sources of uncertainty
About the process of setting budgets and estimating costs
Budgets are rigid, and people are expected to promise accomplishments on fixed budgets. The corporate lying game is prevalent (people ask for too much, and their superiors cut them back). Often projects with the greatest overpromising win	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People recognize that the costs of making major accomplishments cannot be predicted. The budgeting process has the flexibility to adapt as new information is generated

How are commitments made ? and what are people accountable for ?
Information gathered for the purpose of communicating or understanding is used as the basis for commitments. This dual purpose biases communication of uncertainty	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Commitments are made based on achievable goals, and people are held accountable for things they can control. Assessments of uncertainty inform the organization of the risk it is undertaking
About the assumptions in plans or decisions
There are many assumptions in plans are decisions	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	The few assumptions are explicit and not crucial to the decisions at hand. Multiple scenarios representing the range of uncertainty are considered

On Outside-In Strategic Perspective

How does your company see the business environment changing ?
With an inside-out perspective – in terms of the organization existing business and incremental trends	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People have a broad view of the forces changing the industry and customers, the positions and strategies of the competition, and the implications for their organization
Are there formal tools and processes to develop and communicate an outside-in perspective
It is difficult to find staff, processes or documents portraying an outside-in perspective. The focus is on pressing current issues, and outside information is in the form of undigested reports	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	There are specialized staff, process (ex. global technology planning), and documents portraying an outside-in perspective
About the assumptions people make when they plan or make decisions
There are many assumptions based on extending current business success such as rates of growth of shares or markets will increase; we are technically ahead of the competition; with a better mousetrap, the world will beat a path to our door; and the present markets and competition will change slowly	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	The few assumptions are grounded in a solid understanding of industry change

About peoples experience and participation in perspective—expanding activities outside the organization
People focus on their existing jobs to the exclusion of building a broader perspective based on outside information. The company discourages this outside perspective	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Most people participate in activities that broaden their perspectives (ex. job rotation, professional and industry meetings). The organization supports and values this perspective
When people in your organization interpret or comment on some recent event that impacts their industry ...
They have trouble interpreting the event. They are overwhelmed by detail and have trouble relating it to their industry or organization	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Peoples' interpretations reflect a broad understanding of the industry. They are able to explain the event's significance to the industry and the organization

On System Thinking

If you examine a recent decision, the factors considered, how people knew what was important, and the ultimate recommendation
Few factors are considered, or so many are considered that people are overwhelmed. Recommendations are based on implications for only a few aspects of the business	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Many factors are considered, then narrowed down to a list of important factors based on the implications for the value creation. The recommendation is based on its full implication
What factors do you look at when making decisions ?
There is no checklist and different people have substantially different lists of factors to consider	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People know or immediately draw on a thorough checklist that covers all major aspects of the business system (ex. technical, competitive, market, manufacturing and regulatory issues)
How are peoples' different perspectives, such as marketing and technical, integrated into a decision ?
Few perspectives are represented in decisions. People with different perspectives develop into camps, each thinking it has the only right view	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Different perspectives are represented in each decision, and an integrated view is developed. Peoples' different perspectives are respected and used to broaden understanding
Are there formal models of important systems such as business models showing the pathway to commercial profits for projects, industry dynamics, and the portfolio pipeline ?
Systems models are rare, and if they exist are used infrequently or only by closed specialized groups. The models often are too complex to be useful, perhaps taking days to run	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Many systems models exist and are routinely used to develop insight and conduct sensitivity analysis

When your organization CEO is asked a complex question ...
He makes snap judgments based on gut feelings or personal perspective, without acknowledging his limitations. Alternatively, he is overwhelmed and unable to make any progress without drawing on extensive resources	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3
The thought process represents a broad perspective on the question, and he can come with a partial or rough answer. He is able to draw on the resources required to address the most important issues (ex. other people, checklists and model results) and extend his thinking

On Open Information Flow

How do people in your organization get information they need ?
People must work hard to extract the needed information. They may need authorization to use various sources	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People get the organization's best information quickly (ex. find the right person to talk to in two phone calls)
How do people feel about secret information ?
People feel they are out of the loop on critical issues. The competition may have better information about their organization than they do	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	There are few secrets. Those that exist are regarded as properly secret in the minds of people from whom the information is withheld (ex. for competitive, legal or personal reasons)
How much information have people in your organization received from others lately ?
People have trouble getting information from others and must work hard to get the most basic information. Information is used as a source of personal power	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People have plenty of information – perhaps erring on the side too much – and report that colleagues have been forthcoming and helpful
Are there formal channels of communication ?
The few channels that exist are viewed as not relevant to creating value. Informal channels are discouraged	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Channels are abundant and not restricted. People testify to their usefulness. Informal channels, such as networks are fostered and encouraged.

How do people contribute to communication channels ?
Contributions are limited, and opportunities are few	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People have recent contributions and feel they have been formally or informally rewarded for them

On Alignment and Empowerment

About the strategies at differnt levels (ex. technology strategy to portfolio strategy to project strategy)
There may not be any strategies. If there are, they provide little guidance for decision making. They are viewed cynically as corporate PR. The links among strategies are absent, unclear, or ambiguous	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	There are clear strategies at all levels that provide useful guidance for decision making. Strategies at one level are clearly linked to strategies at the next. Lower-level strategies interpret and carry out the implementation of the higher-level strategies
About the value measures used to evaluate decisions at different levels (ex. technology strategy to portfolio strategy to project strategy)
There may not be any any value measures. If there are, each level sets its own values or decision criteria, with no special requirement that they be related to values and strategies at other levels	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	There are clear measures of value at all levels. Value measures at one strategic level are clearly linked through the strategy to measures at the next level
About the approvals required to make or carry out important decisions
Decisions require many levels of approval. Review meetings are perceived as wasting time. often meetings with upper management are feared because it may redirect efforts and change priorities without clear reason. Upper management often feels overloaded with the need to check on subordinates	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Decisions require few approvals because people understand the strategy and are trusted to carry it out. Meetings with upper management are viewed as adding value

About the roles of people involved in a recent important decision
Either few people participated in the decision or so many did that the process bogged down. Typically, lower level employees make proposals to upper levels for approval or rejection	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	Many people participated in the decision process, at multiple levels in the organization. A dialogue was carried out in the process that continually aligned and refined the vertical links. Management at different levels collaborated to build a high-quality decision and achieved aligned commitment to action
About any recent decision that was controversial
The decision did not stick and was undone or remade over and over again	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People unified around the decisions and carried it out with little intervention. They understood the reasons for the decision and believe the organization is carrying out a sensible strategy for creating value

On Disciplined Decision Making

How a recent strategic decision was made ?
Decisions are often made without much conscious choice. If there was a choice, the reasons for it are often unclear and undocumented. Perhaps someone in authority simply made the call	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	It was done by a conscious decision, with documentation of its basis.
What is the process for making a decision ?
I'm unable to identify the true decision maker(s)	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	It's a consistent explanation of a systemic decision process, which focuses on building a quality decision and incorporates many best practices
About the types of decision made
The types of decisions are unclearly delineated, or whole categories are absent (ex. the portfolio is simply the sum of individually considered project decisions, or the business strategy is redefined to pursue whatever new R&D results have been achieved)	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People readily make distinctions among types of decisions such as project, portfolio and technology strategy

When people critique the organization's decision processes
People frequently believe that processes yield poor decisions, thereby wasting potential value creation and their personal time. Critiques are sometimes destructive or cynical and convey a sense of hopelessness	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	People recognize the value added by the process and their criticism will be couched as potential improvements
About the formal tools used to support the process ...
These tools are not apparent, or if they can be found they will not often be used to support decisions. They may be used to justify decisions after they have been made	-3	-2	-1	0	+1	+2	+3	There are modern decision technology.

How do people feel about secret information?

People feel they are out of the loop on critical issues. The competition may have better information about their organization than they do.

There are few secrets. Those that exist are regarded as properly secret in the minds of people from whom the information is withheld (ex. for competitive, legal or personal reasons).

How much information have people in your organization received from others lately?

People have trouble getting information from others and must work hard to get the most basic information. Information is used as a source of personal power.

People have plenty of information – perhaps erring on the side too much – and report that colleagues have been forthcoming and helpful.

Are there formal channels of communication?

The few channels that exist are viewed as not relevant to creating value. Informal channels are discouraged.

Channels are abundant and not restricted. People testify to their usefulness; informal channels, such as networks are fostered and encouraged.

How do people contribute to communication channels?

Contributions are limited, and opportunities are few.

People have recent contributions and feel they have been formally or informally rewarded for them.

On Alignment and Empowerment

There may not be any strategies. If there are, they provide little guidance for decision making. They are reviewed cynically as corporate PR. The links among strategies are absent, unclear, or ambiguous.

There are clear strategies at all levels that provide useful guidance for decision making. Strategies at one level are clearly linked to strategies at the next. Lower-level strategies interpret and carry out the implementation of the higher-level strategies.

About the value measures used to evaluate decisions at different levels (ex. technology strategy to portfolio strategy to project strategy)

There may not be any value measures. If there are, each level sets its own values or decision criteria, with no special requirement that they be related to values and strategies at other levels.

There are clear measures of value at all levels. Value measures at one strategic level are clearly linked through the strategy to measures at the next level.

About the approvals required to make or carry out important decisions

Decisions require many levels of approval. Review meetings are perceived as wasting time, often meetings with upper management are feared because they may redirect efforts and change priorities without clear reason. Upper management often feels overloaded with the need to check on subordinates.

Decisions require few approvals because people understand the strategy and are trusted to carry it out. Meetings with upper management are viewed as adding value.

About the roles of people involved in a recent important decision

Either few people participated in the decision or so many did that the process bogged down. Typically, lower level employees make proposals to upper levels for approval or rejection.

Many people participated in the decision process, at multiple levels in the organization. A dialogue was carried out in the process that continually aligned and refined the vertical links. Management at different collaborated to build a high-quality decision and achieved aligned commitment to action.

About any recent decision that was controversial

The decision did not stick and was undone or remade over and over again.

People unified around the decisions and carried it out with little intervention. They understood the reasons for the decision and believe the organization is carrying out a sensible strategy for creating value.

How a recent strategic decision was made

Decisions are often made without much conscious choice. If there was a choice, the reasons for it are often unclear and undocumented. Perhaps someone in authority simply made the call.

What is the process for making a decision?

I'm unable to identify the true decision maker(s).

In a consistent explanation of a systemic decision process, which focuses on building a quality decision and incorporates many best practices

About the types of decision made

The types of decisions are unclearly delineated, or whole categories are absent (ex. the portfolio is simply the sum of individually considered project decisions, or the business strategy is redefined to pursue whatever new R&D results have been achieved).
